Deputies Renew Israeli Warning On Reagan Praise for Saudi Plan

By John M. Goshko on Post Service

WASHINGTON - Israel has issued a new warning that President Reagan's repeated praise for a Saudi Arabian plan is endangering the Middle East peace process by giving Israelis and Arabs the impression that the United States is tilling toward the Arabs at Israel's tapense.

That was the message given to Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. by six members of the Israch Knesset (parliament) sent here by Prime Minister Menachem Begin to dramatize his governmeot's concern about recent statements by Mr. Reagan.

The bipartisan group is headed by Moshe Arens, who is expected to become the Israeli ambassador here shortly. After the meeting with Mr. Haig. Mr. Arens told reporters that recent U.S. statements and actions "could reverse the scace process it took us 30 years to '3ct going."

Confusion Over Remark

Mr. Arens, chairman of the Knesset's foreign policy and dehis reference to one part of the right-point Saudi plan that some oterpret as implying eventual Arab recognition of Israel. "You night say that this is a step shead," he said.

ambassador Chaim Herzog, denied any intention to soften Israel's blanket condemnation of Prince Fand's proposals.

"Anyone who got that impres-sion misunderstood," Mr. Arens said. "I told Secretary Heig that the kind of American response that would have been healthy would be to tell the Saudis that they have some way to go, that they should sit down to negotiate with Israel without preconditions." Mr. Arens noted that Prince Fahd's plan does not mention Israel by name and speaks only of conceding the right of states in the region to exist if Arab conditions are met. "Saudi Arabia has to learn to pronounce the name of Israel," he said. Mr. Herzog, a member of the gin's conservative Likud bloc, charged that the Saudi plan is a ploy to pressure the United States into dealing with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Since U.S. policy is to refuse to talk to the PLO as long as it rejects Israel's right to exist, Mr. Herzog continued, the Saudi aim is to give Washington a back-door approach to the PLO by creating the impres-sion that the PLO has not the U.S.

At the White House, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said President Reagan "deplores" this attack, adding: "It dramatizes the oced for the international community to work together to combat incidents of this type which plague us all."

Reconstructing the attack, Mr. Chapman, apparently unruffled, said a few hours later that his first reaction was "surprise, naturally, because it was happening to me." Mr. Chapman, 60, told reporters

The assailant fired a rapid burst of shots while Mr. Chapman crouched behind the motor then "walked briskly away," Mr. Chapman said. Two shots hit the car. The driver, won remained in the car, was unhurt.

Washington Post Service JERUSALEM — Israeli Army troops wounded a 15-year-old Arab high school student during an anti-Israeli demonstration Thursday, as disturbances erupted throughout the occupied West Bank for the 12th consecutive day.

Demonstrations and school strikes, some of them held to protest the Palestinian autonomy negotiations being held by Egypt and Israel in Cairo, were reported in six West Bank towns. Students stoned Israeli vehicles in several towns, and in Dura, near Hebron, a firebomb was reported thrown at an Israeli Army jeep.

Palestinian sources said that Mohammed Abdel Jarrar, 15, was wounded when Israeli troops fired at Arab demonstrators who were carrying a Palestinian flag and shouting slogans in favor of the Palestine Liberation Organization at a secondary school in Jenin, the West Bank's northernmost town. The Palestinians said that the 1sraeli troops also beat several girl students with riot clubs and arrested a reporter for a Jerusalem Arabic newspaper.

COPENHAGEN - Denmark's minority Social Democrat government fell Thursday when it lost support of a pivotal centrist party on a rem-vestment plan the government said was vital to revive the country's economy. Premier Anker Joergensen will head a caretaker government until special elections Dec. 8.

The defeat for Mr. Joergensen came on a motion to implement an economic compromise worked out in May with the three small parties whose votes have kept him in power. Mr. Joergensen has been premier since 1975 except for a one-year period in the late 1970s.

The six Center Democrats in the 179-seat Folketing, or parliament abandoned the government on its plan to order public and private pen-sion plans to reinvest about 3 billion kroner ($425 million) now in unproductive government bonds. The defection cost Mr. Joergensen, whose Social Democrats control 69 seats, the bare 90-seat majority he had maintained with the help of the Center Democrats, the Social Liberals and the Christian Party. The other parties withdrew their support after the Center Democrats declared their position.

The major difference - proposed U.S. arms sales to Taiwan - did not come up in two days of discussions with Chinese officials, Mr. Stoessel said at a news conference. Taiwan itself was "by no means the centerpiece" of the discussions, he added.

The Chinese news agency said the issue of arms sales to Taiwan is a "litmus test whether the U.S. government respects the sovereign rights of China or of any other states."

thority ordered television correspondents to stop using the term "West Bank" and instead call the territory captured from Jordan in the 1967 war "Judea and Samaria," using the biblical names that have been adopted by the government of Prime Minister Meuachem Begin to connote Israeli sovereignty over the region. Previously, reporters were allowed to use the term West Bank when they were speaking of anything Arab. In addition, reporting from the West Bank has been severely curtailed. The television's West Bank correspondent, Rafik Halaby, said that be was no longer allowed to do investigations or features and that he was virtually restricted to covering spot news events. He is not permitted to broadcast interviews with Arabs without high management approval, he said. "There is censorship," he said, "but it is not my problem. It's ls-racii society's problem. They don't want to see. They are hlinding themselves." In September, management refused to broadcast a 12-minute report by a cultural reporter on three plays, now running in vari-ous theaters, that portrayed the discomfort, ambivalence and hru-tality of Israeli soldiers who confront Arabs in occupied areas. Earlier, air time was denied for a 49-minute documentary on the Arab and Jewish owners of a West Jerusalem house, which passed from Arab to Jewish hands in the

But Israel has strongly rejected it and Israeli militants are demanding Israel break its promise to withdraw from the remaining portion of the Sinai next April.

Call for Withdrawal

The Saudi plan calls for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Jordanian and Syrian territory, establishment of a Palestinian state with east Jerusalem as its capital, and the right of all states in the region to live in peace,

Mr. Burg said the Saudi plan was briefly mentioned during the discussion of regional and international developments, and he doscribed the lack of attention given the plan as "a positive way of say-ing that Camp David is the basis and no other initiative could replace it."

Mr. Burg said the talks with Mr. the Nigerians and others, and Mubarak had emphasized that "all about 5,000. NEW DELHI - The government poster being circulated to Indian nussions abroad carries the caption "India among the nations of the world" and proclaims that this country is "among the 10 most industrialized nations, among the only seven countries that have launched their own Earth satellites, and among the three coun-tries that have the world's largest pools of technically trained manpower.

The poster is part of a govern-ment campaign to project India as a relatively rich and prospering poor country with scientific abili-ISRIE ated growth and development. This image is intended to counter what many Indians in govern-ment feel is the inaccurate stereotype of a country wallowing in abysmal poverty and surviving through charity. In citing the technical achievements, the poster de-clares that the evaluation of a country "depends on how you look at it."

Other Criteria

The World Bank does, indeed, have other criteria and another perspective. In its recent World Development Report, it places India 15th from the bottom of 124 nations in per-capita income. With average yearly earnings of $190 a person, India is rated just above Upper Volta and Afghanistan and below Rwanda, Malawi and Sri Lanka. In other key categories, such as average life expectancy (52 years) and the degree of adult li-teracy (36 percent). India also falls within the lower ranges. The contradictory sets of indicators cited by the Indian Directorate of Advertising and Visual Pub-licity, which created the poster, and the World Bank are equally valid, Taken together, they reflect the staggering diversity of Indian society, which seeks to embrace and accommodate hunter-gatherer tribesmen, cultivators and herders, modern farmers, mercantile capialists and erudite groups extending the frontiers of science.

Uneven development is not of course, unique to India or even to W. to Very developing countries and the chasm between rich and poor in the Third World has often been diminished to a cliché. But India, with 685 million people divided into classes, castes, tribes, sects, and language groups, the disparities are greater. With so many people, the poverty is both more intensive and more extensive than in Other countries; similarly, the wealth and the intellectual capital are also more abundant than in .... even many developed countries.

So far, in India's 34-year history of independence, the gulf between what is often called the two Indias hution as a mobilizing cry, have now come to realize that because of the huge reservoir of landless people they cannot command simultaneously the allegiance of those who want land and those who have some, even a little bit, and that once the landless become landed they regard the dispossessed with suspicion. Mrs. Gandhi has told a succession of Western visitors, most recently President Luis Herrera Campins of Venezuela, that her who once looked to land redistrigovernment favors foreign investments. In fact, in terms of econom-ic priorities, Mrs. Gandhi's domesprogram is very similar to that both President Reagan and nf Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain. The weight is now on stimulating entrepreneurial incen-fives. The approach is to loosen the web of regulation and lure some of the capital circulating in a vast illegal economy into the open. In general, the feeling among key elements of the urban elite, the most politically influential sector, is that the freeing of the economy will push India into what many be-lieve is its rightful place in the sun.

"We are like Japan was," said Vi-nod Kapoor, a shawl manufacturer. "If we weren't strangled by the polincians the Indian industrialists could fallow the Japanese example. We have the capacity, the manpower, the skills."

This thinking ties in with the strategy behind the poster. India, the thinking goes, should not be perceived as a poor nation but as a rich poor country, like Brazil. It is in the process of transformation and is gaining in economic strength, and its prospects are improving. There are quite a number of ar-uculate people who dispute such views. For example, George Fernandes, a Socialist member of Parliament, says that some of the consequences of the present approach will have no impact on the masses of poor.

And once again, as planners chart a new course, the basic dissonant harmonies of development, stagnation and regression are ech-oing cacophonously.

India, which last year was able to produce only 22,000 automobiles with 20-year-old European dies, is now producing its own coin-operated video games for ar-cades not only in the major cities but also in provincial towns.

Stadiums, pools, and botels costing several hundred millions of dollars are being built here for the two-week-long Asian Games next year hy a work force of men and women who sleep on the sites, in ragged tents or amid heaps of bricks. By Tyler Marshall

Los Angeles Times Service NEW DELHI - A rare glimpse nf life inside the beleaguered Afghan Army, contained in a diplomalie report received here, appears to indicate growing strength among resistance fighters in cen-tral Afghanistan but also hints that the army's recent recall of military veterans may have been more successful than previously thought. The account of the Afghan

In most cases, diplomats are forced to rely on second- or thirdhand descriptions of fighting outside Kabul

There was no explanation of how the meeting was arranged with the soldier, described only as a reservist who was caught in the sweeping call-up annnunced by the Soviet-backed Marxist regime

The Afghan soldier's convoy was ambushed while returning to Kabul, but the unit was unable to counterattack because the guerrilla fighters were hidden in surroundg trees, according to the account. The unit had conducted nne other patrol, to Gardez, 70 miles south of Kabul, during the twomonth period, diplomats said.

Contrary to previous reports, the soldier indicated that a large number of men were successfully reinducted into the army during the September military call-up, aimed at replenishing the ranks of the army, which has been weakened by casualties, desertion and repeated purges during the last three years.

Afghan Army strength, roughly 80,000 when the Marxists seized power in April, 1978, is estimated by Western military analysis to be about 30,000 now.

The soldier described how many young men who fled urban areas to avoid the recall found life in the mountains too difficult and eventually returned tn surrender.

Government authorities, apparently more cager to increase army strength than to impose punish-meni upon the draft dodgers, were said to have accepted the excuse of those men that they had "been out of tnucb" and quickly assigned them to units.

Three good reasons for investing in the German equity market via UNIFONDS now:

First

The overall market level is still low and leading stocks appear cheap, reflecting the weak performance of the German stock market in 1979 and 1980 in comparison with major international markets.

Second

Since the beginning of this decade the Deutschmark has depreciated approx. 35 per cent against the US-Dottar, more than discounting adverse developments in the German economy and disregarding a turn to the better in some key areas. By Investing now you benefit from the dual opportunity of a low market and an overly depressed currency.

fascinating, many-faceted mexico

A tourist country par excellence, Mexico offers you a fascinating journey through time and space, taking you back to the precolumbian era whose mysterious Olmec. Toltec. Mayan and Aztec civilizations have left impressive reminders of the distant past. Later came the colonial period, with its legacy of Baroque palaces and richly decorated churches like Santa Prisca in Taxco... and, more recently, the explosion of modern Mexico, proudly typified by the capital, Mexico City, with its broad avenues, tree-shaded parks, and museums housing innumerable treasures of the fabulous past as well as striking examples of contemporary Mexican art, not forgetting Guadalajara, a large up-to-date town which has succeeded in preserving its old-world charm. Here too are many beach resorts, some of them world-famous like Acapulco, Puerto Vallarta and Cancun; others more unspoiled, featuring immense expanses of fine sand fringed by tropical vegetation such as Ixtapa-Zihuatanejo, Careyes and the beaches of Baja California. There is a wide range of hotels and restaurants serving delicious Mexican specialities. Paul Warnke, right, former chief U.S. SALT negotiator, looks on as Yuri Kapralov, Soviet consul in Washington, discusses the threat of nuclear war at a teach-in at Harvard University.

By Ben A. Franklin New York Times Service WASHINGTON - Thousands of students and faculty members at 151 college campuses around the country have staged teach-ins.

on the threat of nuclear war. Planning for "Convocation on the Threat of Nuclear War" on Wednesday was begun three months ago by the principal spon-sor, the Union of Concerned Scientists, a Boston-based group with 100,000 members that was formed in 1969 and opposes nuclear pow-

Spokesmen for the group, which also has an office here, said the widespread participation by campus groups in 37 states indicated a growing fear of nuclear war.

Tom Ayres, one of the coordinators of the campus meetings, said he could make no estimate of attendance until all reports were in. Henry W. Kendall, who instigated planning for the day as president of the scientists' group, called the turnout a "runaway success." David D. Brunell, director of the about 1.500 people attended a meeting, two Nobel laureates, Hans Bethe and Roald Hoffmann, and 360 other members of the faculty endorsed the convocation. Both the mood and the rhetoric were notably different from student-led demonstrations of the 1960s against the war in Vietnam. There was plainly an effort Wednesday to make arguments for control of nuclear weapons acceptable to middle Americans.

About half the participants at many of the sessions were reported to be "noncollege people" of middie age and older.

Several speakers mentioned the recent demonstrations in Europe against U.S. nuclear weapons there. But, following the wish to avoid reawakening the 1960s image of confrontation in the streets.

And based on the turnout Wednesday, the convocation's sponsor committed it to a second program next year. Mr. Kendail said Veterans' Day had been picked for the convoca-tion "because of its symbolism, both to veterans and to the victims of war." He added, "World War III would leave no veterans."

The campus programs included films, seminars, panel discussions and speeches.

An audience of about 800 at Harvard University's Sanders Theater gave some of its loudest applause to Yuri Kapralov, a consuar official at the Soviet Embassy in Washington, who apparently was the only official Russian par-ticipant in the day's events.

Mr. Kapralov said that "there is no system of weapons that we are not prepared to eliminate, provid-ed it is done on the basis of equity and equal security." He appeared on a platform with Paul Warke, the Carter administration's negoti-ator at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, and Stephen Meyer, an MIT political science professor who has been a consultant to U.S. military and intelligence agencies.

From Bates College at Lewiston. Maine, to the University of California at Los Angeles, audiences beard a "scientists' declaration," signed by Mr. Kendall, who teach-es physics at MIT, and eight others, that called for focusing public opinion on these four objectives:"

· A comprehensive U.S.-Soviet. ban on nuclear weapons tests. · Limits on flight testing of new missile systems.

· "Substantial and verifiable reductions" of existing U.S. and Soviet nuclear arsenals.

fort to halt the proliferation of nuclear weaponry and to encourage similar weapons reductions by other nuclear powers.

Two themes emphasized by many speakers were that Ameri-cans share a common interest with the Russian people" in limiting nuclear firepower, and that the Reagan administration appears to believe that a limited nuclear war can be fought and won.

Warnings to Republicans Seen in U.S. Voting

By Adam Clymer

New York Timer Service New York Timer Service NEW YORK — Despite predict-ably partisan differences in ex-plaining the meaning of the Nov. 3 elections around the United States, professionals in both parties found at least two important messages in the results, and each of them con-tained a warning to the Republitained a warning to the Republi-

The first is that money is not enough. From the gnbernatorial race in Virginia to the mayoral contests, and in referenda in one state after another, the big-spending side lost. In 1982, the Republicans will be the big spenders, for their national organizations are raising 10 times as much as the Democrats, but Re-publican professionals called the recent results a useful reminder that the party should not rest on its checkbooks.

The second lesson is that Republicans may have to worry about the black vote because of evidence from Virginia that Presi-dent Reagan's unpopularity among blacks can spur large turnouts even when Democratic candidates themselves cannot. Thus, in some situations at least, the Virginia result calls into question the dictum of Lyn Nofziger, the White House political aide, that "this president has coattails."

Few professionals other than Charles T. Manatt, the Democratic national chairman, said they discerned any real referendum on Mr. Reagan anywhere in the Nov. 3 voting. Mr. Manatt contended that the results showed that the president's influence "has been seriously eroded by the public's misgivings" about his economic program. But Richard Richards, Mr. Manatt's Republican counterpart, made the point that of the two Democratic ubernatorial candidates, Charles Robb won easily in Virginia though he did not attack Mr. Reagan's economic policies, while

Reading Skills Study Finds Decline In Ability of U.S. Pupils to Reason New York Times Service

NEW YORK - A federally financed study has concluded that while American schoolchildren are learning to read a wide range of materials, the vast majority do not develop adequate thinking skills or the ability to interpret what they read beyond a superficial level.

In a report released on Wednesday, the National Assessment of Educational Progress found that more than 100,000 students tested last year demonstrated "very few skills for examining the nature of the ideas that they take away from their reading." Moreover, students today are less skillful than their counterparts of a decade ago in analyzing literary selections and less knowledgeable about such literary classics as "Tom Sawyer" and the story of Robin Hood.

The National Assessment urged schools around the country to put more emphasis on writing, structured discussions and "problem solving" exercises in order to prepare students to function in a not bring them to a position to mount a significant challenge to any incumbent Democratic mayor of a major city in the nation. The black vote is another im-portant issue. Peter D. Hart, a leading Democratic pollster who worked for Mr. Robb, said he believed that the increased identification of Mr. Reagan with Marshall-Coleman, the Republican candidate in Virginia, spurred black in-terest as the campaign closed. Mr. Richards acknowledged the message in Virginia's black votes. "We've got to find out what we're doing wrong," he said. "They're distrustful of us and they shouldn't be. If we don't do better, we're going to lose time after time."

The money issue was also an un-usual finding. Big spenders lost in most races.

Losers Outspent Winners

In Virginia, spending for Mr. Coleman was reported at $2.7 mil-lion, while spending for Mr. Robb was put at $2.2 million. In Houston, Mayor Jim McConn spent $1 million and finished third. Ka-thryn J. Whitmire spent $200,000

tion proposals in Obio and the tuition lax credit plan in the District. of Columbia all outspent the winning sides. Eddie Mahe, a former executive director of the Republican Nation-al Committee, said the outcome of those contests showed that "there is a point beyond which money becomes marginal in its use." Mr. Richards acknowledged

In letters to the editors of The New York Times and The Wash-ington Post, Mr. Castro said that the "campaign" had been "under way for several weeks," and included reports of shipments of arms from Cuba to the guerrillas in El Salvador. Mr. Castro said that the reports were "totally false." The letter to The Times was received Wednesday.

Mr. Castro was specifically criti-cal of an article by Rowland Evans and Robert Novak, the syndicated columnists, that asserted that 500 to 600 Cuban troops had been sent to El Salvador in late September. The Cuban leader said that the article, which was published Oct. 19, was "absolutely false." Mr. Castro also said that the United States had informed other countries that it had detected the movement of 500 Cuban troops to Nicaragua. But he said that the United States had failed to respond to Cuban demands that the charge be documented.

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., in a Nov. 5 interview with The New York Times, confirmed a report published the previous day that he had asked the Defense De partment to examine measures for possible blockade of Nicaragua or actions around Cuba, including naval exercises, a show of air pow er, a quarantine or even strong action, all aimed at curbing th

U.S. Plans for Haitians Stir Charges of Racism

By Jo Thomas New York Times Service

MIAMI - The Reagan adminis-tration's decision to send 2,500 Haitian and Cuban refugees to Fort Drum in upstate New York has brought charges of racism from the newly re-elected mayor of Miami, lawyers for the Haitians and local Haitian leaders, as well as from civil rights groups here and in New York.

"It's the closest thing we have in the United States to Siberia — ex-cept for the president's first choice, Glasgow, Montana," said Ira Kurzban, a lawyer representing the Haitian Refugee Center Inc. of Miami and the National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee, which has been litigating Haitian refugee cases since 1973.

About 1,200 Haitians being held at a detention camp near Miami are to be transferred to Fort Drum. They will be joined by 1,300 other illegal Haitian immigrants now housed at 14 other refugee centers around the country, and by 400 Cuban refugees still being held at Fort Chafee, Ark. Crop Disaster Follows Period of Rioting and Crackdowns

By Edward Cody gton Post Service CASBLANCA, Morocco — King Hassan II, spiritual and tem-poral ruler of Morocco, directed an extraordinary appeal to his countrymen last month on the Islamic Feast of the Slaughter. His royal message: spare the sheep. The monarch's call, the first of its kind in memory here, flew in the face of a centuries-old Moslem tradition prescribing slaughter of a lamb to mark the celebration, Eid al-Adha. It dramatized for Moroc-co's deeply Islamic population the damage done to their country by a drought described by outside experts as the most devastating on record Because the rains failed, Morocco lost half its major grain crop this year, and overall agricultural production dropped by more than a quarter. The warm sun and clear blue skies have lasted well beyond schedule again this fall, delighting

The problems are easily visible. Only a 10-minute drive from Casa-blanca's beachfront resort and chic night clubs lie the crowded tenements of Boush N'touf, where street boys were seen playing soccer with a dead rat instead of a ball, or the makeshift huts of Ben M'sik, where thousands of families live without electricity or sewers in what resembles a Palestinian refugee camp in Lebanon.

In comparison with 1979, when there were 70,000 refugees here, today's numbers are insignificant. But of the 13,000 still in Hong Kong camps, about 6,000 are "hard core" cases considered unlikely ever to be offered places overseas,

Some do not meet the criteria laid down by the United States and other resettlement countries, 111 while others have damaged their chances of starting a new life elsemliwhere either by refusing last year to move to Batan Island in the 2 H .... Philippines, where a special camp has been set up for those waiting to go to the United States, or by failing to attend interviews here.

Soon it will be too late for these people. American relief officials say they have screened everybody here and know who they want. Britain has completed its quota. Canada has cut its quota by half and Australia is threatening to reduce the number it will take.

Little to Be Done

John Heywood, Hong Kong's deputy secretary for security, said: "We are moving back toward the situation we had before the 1979 Geneva conference on Indochinese refugees. I don't doubt the resettlement countries have good reasons for cutting their quotes, but the simple fact of the matter is that Hong Kong is being left with a problem that nobody seems to want to share."

Mr. Heywood insists that the Hong Kong government will not allow the unwanted 6,000 to stay, but he acknowledges there is little it can do alone.

"This issue must be put back in the international forum," he said. "Countries must recognize that Hong Kong is being made to pay for its humanitarian treatment of the refugees."

If the hard core cannot be resettled, Hong Kong would like an in-ternational agreement that they be repatriated to Vietnam, Mr. Hey-wood said: "It could not be done unilaterally, of course, but it could be arranged if there were a concerted effort by the world community to find a solution to our problem.

But the departure of the 6,000 would not necessarily be the end of the crisis for Hong Kong. Few boat people arrive here at this time of the year because the winds are oot favorable, but figures for the rest of the region show that the ex-odus from Vietnam is continuing.

Israeli Fever, Camp David Cure

President Reagan cannot understand why Israelis don't appreciate Saudi Arabia's "implicit" recognition of their right to exist, and why they resent his saying this implies a willingness to negotiate." A senior Washington official told The Times' Bernard Gwertzman that he could not remember when the Israelis have been so excitable and so sensitive about everything; I can't rule out the possibility that they might do anything." Might they really? And is their fever really so mystifying?

The Israelis have witnessed the murder of the one Arab leader who accepted their existence with a peace process that provided for their security. They have seen the United States put a higher value on Saudi Arabia's good will than on Israel's peace of mind. They have heard two former American presidents vindicate the tactics of their implacable foes in the PLO. And they have watched Western Europe join the "rejectionist" Arabs who pronounce Camp David a failure.

Are they only hallucinating, then, when they see the whole world rushing to exchange their security for petrodollars? President Reagan keeps hunting for merit in the Saudi demand for a Palestinian state headquartered in Jerusalem, but not once in 10 months has he even implied what kind of deal he himself favors. And now he has allowed a jumble of American inferences about what the Saudis are implying call into question the historic treaties and processes of Camp David.

So Prime Minister Begin — whose desire to annex the West Bank would in fact be served by a diplomatic breakdown threatens the world with three retaliations. One is to defer the scheduled final evacuation of Sinai in April. That is not a credible threat. Israel must cling to the Camp David terms, not just to preserve a valuable peace with Egypt but also to ward off more radical West Bank proposals and procedures.

A second threat is to resume bombing the Syrian missiles and Palestinian bases in Lebanon, thus demonstrating contempt for America's faith that Saudi diplomacy will solve that problem. But the contempt would be angrily repaid in; say, reduced American aid, and isolate Israel yet more.

The third threat is the most potent: declare an emergency and, in a burst of panicky jingoism, form a national coalition government. Such a coalition might not say no to everything, but it could not effectively say yes to anything more. Thus, for the price of a few ministerial jobs to Labor, Mr. Begin could complete the deal with Egypt - and then immobilize Israel's diplomacy for years to come.

What is the wise American approach now? Clearly, not to deride the Israelis' fever, but to treat it. That anxious nation deserves finally to know what further deals the Reagan administration aims to achieve and what concessions it will next seek from all sides. Above all, America should not be straying from its own Camp David medicine.

It is the Camp David treaties that commit Israel to something called "full autonomy" for Palestinians in the West Bank — and a five-year freeze on deciding its sovereignty. For all his obvious efforts to wriggle off, Mr. Begin is hooked on that line; and Israel's Labor Party positively favors it.

Only by protecting that commitment can Israel and the Palestinians be gradually brought into real negotiations. But that won't happen unless Mr. Reagan persuades the Arabs who want peace with Israel, or alliance with America, that it is the only opportunity to avoid a diplomatic dead end and more

A Silent Generation Wakes Up

By Anthony Lewis

BOSTON - A generation of Americans has the use of nuclear weapons, scorn for arms agree-ments with the Soviet Union, pledges of vast soms B grown up now with the fact of nuclear weap-ons; thinking little about them, putting their po-tential borror out of mind. We have truly been a silent generation. The ouclear armory has swollen in numbers and sophistication and danger with hardly a murner of American public protest. The years of silence make what occurred on Vet-erans' Day 1931 extraordinary. On campuses across the United States people gathered to take part in a national teach-in on the threat of nuclear war. They heard what the weapons will do to civilizatioo if they are ever used. They heard about the compulsions of the arms race. And in large oum-bers they said they were ready to join in efforts to reduce the nuclear threat.

reduce the nuclear threat. That it happened in Bostoo was not surprising. But as someone said, this time it was not just preaching to the choir. There were meetings at the Universities of New Mexico, Alabama, Arkansas, Montana; at Notre Dame and Vanderbilt and Duke: altogether at 150 colleges and universities in 41 states for new weapons systems. Last month President Reason dismissed European and American expressions of concern about nuclear weapons as those of "increasingly vocal" groups carrying a message of "pacifism and neu-trality." His top assistant, Edwin Meese 3d, said of the British and West German demonstrations;

"We feel this will not impact on our policies." I do not think that position is politically maintainable. The European crowds represent much more than "pacifism" - they signal, among other things, widespread discontent with U.S. policy. And what happened oo Veterans' Day shows the beginning, at least, of an American opinion that canoot be ignored. At the Harvard School of Public Health, where I listened, the audience heard the stark facts of death and destruction. The tiny primitive bomb used on Hiroshima killed 100,000 people. A one-megatoo bomb, modest by today's standards, would destroy everything over an area of four miles, discupt communications over a continent,

Remember all that talk, back in Remember all that talk, back in 1976, about how he was deter-mined to do it by 1981 — and then, in 1977, all the further talk about how it wasn't going to be possible and how the Carter ad-ministratioo was being pigheaded and deceptive in refusing to concrete the point? concede the point?

Broder's call was for a little more reflectiveness. perspective. rereflectiveness, perspective, re-straint. But the trend was not to be bucked. I was struck in going back over the gathering sense of doom in those days by how similar the Carter failings and failures were to those we are hearing about now.

Indicators

The economic plan hadn't worked. The indicators were all pointing the wrong way. The budg-et wouldn't be balanced by 1981. et wouldn't be balanced by 1981. The Europeans were registering disappointment, verging on alarm. Ditto the Israelis, though for dif-ferent reasons. ("I do not want to see the United States ever try to buy peace by sacrificing Israel on the altar of American foreign poli-cy," Senate Republican leader Howard Baker — this year's Israeli heavy — warned, observing as well that he had been "disturbed by re-cent press speculation about a con-frontation between the administra-

frontation between the administration and the American Jewish community.") The overall job-rating surveys showed that people were losing confidence — and fast — in their president's ability to "handle" foreign policy. There had been, and was to be periodically throughout the four Carter years, the com-plaint that there really was no coherent foreign policy — and this, we all remember, was believed to be due in oo small part to the uncontrollable competition and bat-tling between Zbigniew Brzezinski in the White House and the secretary of state and others charged with formulating and conducting such a policy.

I don't mean to belittle the seciousness of the problems facing the Reagan administration now or to dismiss its failings, and I certainly don't want to deny it its distinc-tion in certain of these fields i.e., the Haig-vs.-Everyone affair, which seems to me to have gone the Brzezinski, Kissinger and Ros-

Changing Partners in Chad

Chad, like many African colonies, became a country before it was really a nation. The 20 years since it gained independence from France have been years of strife between the Moslem nomads of the Saharan north and the Christian and animist tribes of the more arable south. So far, geography has not relieved the tensions; Chad is landlocked, poor and surrounded by wary neighbors. But it may be sitting atop a form of salvation petroleum, uranium and gold.

Rebellion has been more or less continuous since 1966. French troops returned in 1968, trying to preserve stability and influ-ence in "French" Africa. Libya began to get involved in 1971, hoping to exploit the unrest to gain control of a uranium-rich strip along its border. The French-backed government fell in 1975 and Libya's influence peaked last December, when Col. Qadhafi's troops and planes established President Goukouni Oueddei's control. Plans for a merger with Libya were announced, with no doubt as to which partner would dominate.

But that intervention shocked neighboring African states, France and the United States as well. The merger talk also stirred domestic opposition. France reinforced neighboring garrisons and Nigeria, denouncing the Libyans, led the Organization of African Unity to propose an African peacekeeping force instead. President Goukouni, who in his rebel days hotly disputed Libya's territorial claim, again saw its aims diverging from his own.

And so there has been another turnabout in recent weeks. Mr. Goukouni appealed to the new French president to provide an alternative to dependence on the Libyans; Mr. Mitterrand was happy to oblige with aid and diplomatic support. Thus strengthened, the Chadian leader told Col. Qadhafi to withdraw his troops. Amid predictions of chaos, the troops are going. The United States is now considering a request that it step into the breach with emergency food and logistic support. There is a useful lesson here for American policy mak-ers who sometimes write off African countries too quickly.

President Goukouni, should he survive the latest transition, will be at least the fourth leader in northeast Africa to carry off such a change in partners. Presidents Sadat of Egypt, Nimeiri of Sudan and Siad Barre of Somalia all earlier freed themselves from once-convenient Soviet support.

An incipient African nationalism does exist and it can be a force that equals outside alignment. Chad may even now be something less than a cohesive nation, but it has the will to avoid again becoming another's colony. THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NEW YORK — The living expenses of the aver-age American family are the highest in 20 years, according to Dun's Report. The realization of this fact is causing the large corporations in this state to advance voluntarily workmen's wages, and retailers continue to advance the prices of food and clothing, declaring they are only keeping pace with wholesale prices. Notwithstanding. the consumption still runs ahead of the production and in all parts of the country there is a scarcity of labor. Io London, Mr. B.S. 1931: Manchurian Conflict

PARIS - Today's editorial in the Herald reads: "In the current Japanese conflict with China over Manchuria, Japan has technical right oo her side; China has fundamental right. There is no dissimulating the fact that China has sought to put Japan in a position where reconsideration of the territorial and industrial concessions that Japan obtained from her in 1895 would become an imperative subject of examination by the League of Nations, pointing to the need, in justice and equity, of a revision of the treaties between the occupants. This explains Japan's stubborn refusal to acquiesce in any step toward a settlement until China should have reaffirmed the validity of the treaties."

The way the idea took hold amazed the group that started it, the Unico of Concerned Scientists. As recently as Labor Day it knew of only two dozen universities planning to join in. Then, all over the country, local people organized meetings.

"Something is happening," said Marvin L. Goldberger, president of the California Institute of Technology, who is a physicist and a man of mea-sured words. Yes, something is. But what? Or why is there a change in the long American public indifference to the nuclear arms race?

Sen. David Pryor, an Arkansas Democrat, spoke to the point on the Senate floor a week before the Veterans' Day teach-in. He asked whether the recent European demonstrations against nuclear weapons were made up of "peaceniks from 20 years ago" — and he answered oo. "I find today a genuine concern." Sen. As a first step he urged the poblic to conocatrate on a comprehensive treaty prohibiting all nuclear weap-ons testing. That is crucial, he said, because without tests oew weapons development would stop and "much of the fear is fear of the unknown: What does the other guy have up his sleeve?" ## Trying to Get Aesthetics Into Solar House Architecture

By Paul Goldberger New York Times Service

NEW YORK - There is a house pictured on the September cover of N Solar Age magazine that mixes green and maroon shingles, vertical wood siding and windows of varying sizes into a shape that looks like a cross between a barn and a spaceship. The passive solar stucture in Vermont was designed by the architect Ted Montgomery of Circus Studios, who refers to it as "solar funk."

Meanwhile, another publication, Better Homes and Gardens Building Ideas, has on its cover a photograph of a bland clapboard house at Long Island's Brookhaven National Laboratory. The architect Ralph Jones designed the experimental house, which resembles almost any suburban tract house, except for the greenhouselike glass projection on its facade.

Though this house may well live up to the promises made for it in energy conservation, it does little to suggest that solar design has any potential to raise aesthetics above the level of the suburban box.

But these magazines in themselves are not the point. Rather, it is that architecture based on the requirements of solar energy, whether passive or active, is hringing us some very disappointing buildings. Currently, it seems, most architect-designed solar houses fall into two categories: They are flamboyant and sometimes a little ridiculous, like the house in Vermont (the facade of which its architect likes to compare to Darth Vader), or they are competent and dull, like the Brookhaven house. To be blunt about it, most solar houses are just plain ugly.

While it is not true that there is no such thing as a good solar house that is, a house that uses solar energy and is also a creative work of architecture in its own right - there are very, very few of them.

For all the impact the solar energy movement has had on the public's mind, it seems still not to have setted into a comfortable relationship with the world of architecture. What is missing is some sort of coherent middle ground, where architecture responds to the needs of climate at no cost to the sophistication of its design.

"I'm an architect first and a solar engineer second," said Douglas Kelbaugh, a Princeton-based architect. His own house, completed in the early 1970s, is one of the East Coast's significant solar designs. But his philosophy is not echoed by many of his colleagues. We might go so far as to say that there is a real split between energy-oriented and designoriented architects.

Are these things contradictory? It should not be so. Historically, most eat architecture has been responsive to the needs of climate Modernism leaned toward the universal solution, and architecture is tending today toward more specific solutions --- which should mean more respect for climate, for regional styles and for special materials. All are consistent with the notion of making use of limited energy resources.

Part of this split, this sense that aesthetics and energy are mutually exclusive, is culturally induced. This is a time in which a certain luxuri-ous, even self-indulgent, aesthetic has taken over the advance guard; the historical allusion and omamentation of so-called "postmodern" archi-tecture and the complex spatial manipulations of neo-Corbusian villas do not speak of spareness or limitation. They are the architecture of richness and plenty, not the architecture of conservation. So aesthetic leadership has, in a sense, made a conscious decision to so assure ready shap has, in a sense, made a constant to be render energy concerns less than crucial — deliberately abandoning such concerns and leaving them largely to those architects for whom aesthetics have never really been paramount anyway. The result is that most solar architecture is designed either hy architects who are mainly producers, churning out serviceable hut unimaginative designs to fit the needs of commercial builders, or by those who have aspirations but, alas, relatively the shift is the meter of pure designs. rively little skill in the matter of pure design.

Simplicity Combined With Aesthetic

So far, the best solar architecture - or at least the highest average level — can be found in the Southwest, particularly in New Mexico and Arizona. This region has always had a distinctive architecture of its own in its exquisite, brooding buildings of adobe, which show great respect for the demands of climate.

Among the best recent examples is a sprawling house designed by Edward Mazria/Schiff & Associates in Albuquerque, N.M. The house is organized around an indoor pool, with sawtooth-shaped clerestory win-dows letting in light and providing a crisp form that stands up majestically against the mountains. The heat hill last year totaled a neat zero.

Aesthetically different, but equally encouraging, is the Brodhead house in La Houda, Calif., by Richard Fernan and Laura Hartman. Here passive solar beating had been integrated into what one might call a farmhouse vernacular. A handsome and powerful fireplace and masonry core serve as the house's central symbolic and energy-producing element. But these fine houses are still a minority.

The issue is finally, one of integration, of learning how to balance different concerns and not seeing them as inherently contradictory. In Moore Grover Harper's best work — like Jefferson R. Riley's house in Guildford, Conn. — one senses that the architects were able to achieve such a halance between aesthetics and energy.

Perhaps Steven Robinson, a New York architect who has designed a number of houses that use solar energy, best sums up the goals of solar architecture: "What I look forward to is the day when 'solar architecture' doesn't exist. Solar concerns should be simply something you take into account as naturally as the parameters of the building site, the number of bedrooms, and so forth — not the whole point of the design, as it is for many architects, but not something anyone can afford to ignore, either.

Fats Goldberg and the Controlled Gluttony Diet

By Beth Ann Krier Los Angeles Times Service OS ANGELES -- What is

L OS ANGELES - this? A diet, book author who tells the truth about dieting? A guy who says, "It stinks!"? A "thin evangelist" by the name of Fats Goldberg? - who writes, "The greatest foods in the world, the ones that are going to enrich your life, fall mainly into one or more of three magnificent categories: grease, dough and-or sugar.

As you might have figured, Goldberg's guide to weight loss, "Controlled Cheating" (Double-day), is, in his words, "not a book written hy a skinny lady who de-cided to become a nutritionist."

As you might never have deduced, Goldberg's scandalous, and seductive eating program on which he consumes pastrami omelets. Hostess Twinkies and Haagen Dazs rum raisin ice cream

• Eat like a professional dieter (low-calorie, balanced foods eaten with knife and fork) for 14 days. worth of binging. like this?

· Then cheat for one day, eating absolutely anything you want in any amount. "Bozo cating" or "ramming, jamming, stuffing, slid-ing and maneuvering all the delicious goodies you can get into your mouth at the same time" is permit-

Goldberg, who was born in Kansas City, Mo., but has spent much of his life in New York running Goldberg's Pizzerias, insists that he is testimony to both the ef-ficacy and safety of his plan. "When I was fat, the doctors ted (but not advised) on Cheating said I'd be lucky to reach 30," he says. I'm now 47 years old, in the best shape of my life, except for an occasional stretch mark, and I nev-· Return to the "knife-and-fork prison" of traditional dieting for six days and cheat on the seventh er get sick. "I'm becoming like a gurn," says Goldberg, promoting his book here over a plate of short ribs and hash browns at the Original Pantry restaurant in Los Angeles on a reful cheater wins an entire week's But can you stay healthy eating cent cheating day.

"This is my kinda joint," he says of the restaurant, taking time to kid the waiters about the "small" size of the food portions, which are actually huge and served in the straightforward, down-home style Goldberg relishes.

But he is quickly back on the subject of his new career preaching the joys of guilt-free cheating and how it is affecting him and his followers.

"It ticks me off," he smiles. "These [weight control] groups are getting insights in two weeks that it took me 20-years to get, but my diet is just common sense. I didn't find the archaeological discovery of the world. It's just a system where people can think they're get-

"Dieting stinks. It still stinks af-ter 221/2 years. It doesn't get easier," he says, allowing, however, that with time he has mastered such feats as licking ice-cream comes rather than gobhling them in a couple of bites.

> This plan has normalized my eating habits, I used to be so deprived I was like a vacuum cleaner. I was shoveling it in with both hands most of my life."

> But don't count on Goldberg to get so "normalized" that he starts describing food as fuel, as if eating were some sort of an obligation. "Food is entertainment!" he laughs. "It's a fun thing to eat. The three best things in the world are women, pizza and air conditioning, not necessarily in that order."

So now he wants to tell the world. Doubleday, the Book-of-the-Month Cluh and all the publishing houses bidding for the book's paperback rights apparent-ly think that Goldberg will be successful. After all, if a woman can shoot to the top of the best-seller lists pushing a diet featuring entire days of nothing but pincapple (The Beverly Hills Diet), perhaps a man who advocates full days of pizza and malts can make it, too.

LEVELAND - The Cleve-Land Museum of Art has de-nied a claim by the Louvre in Paris that a 17th-century painting by Nicolas Poussin in the museum was smuggled out of France and should be returned. The work is "La Madone à l'Escalier."

'It is our understanding from careful study and on legal advice from both this side and the other side of the water that the picture was legally exported and legally obtained," a Cleveland Museum official said.

Pierre Rosenberg, curator of paintings at the Loovvre, was quot-ed in published reports as saying permission might be granted to ex-port the painting after it is re-turned to France.

Rosenberg and the Louvre's chief curator, Michel Laclotte, signed a letter published this month in the Burlington magazine in London saying the painting was smuggled out of France.

From Agency Dispatches

WASHINGTON - Mobil is negotiating with the Federal Trade Com-mission an agreement that would leave Marathon Oil intact and separate if the commission disapproves Mobil's proposed merger with Marathon. FTC sources said Thursday,

Under such a "bold separate" accord, Mobil would take over Marathon before antitrust questions were resolved but keep it independ-ent for 180 days while the FTC reserved the right to order Mobil to divest it. Marathon said it is convinced it will be destroyed if Mobil is allowed to acquire it by "hold separate" agreement. Marathon is fighting Mobil's $5.1 billion takeover bid. Investment bankers said Wednesday that they understood First Boston, financial adviser to Marathon, had been "calling everybody, all the industrial companies, even small companies," inviting them to rescue Marathon.

EEC Commission Approves British Steel Aid

BRUSSELS --- The EEC Commission has approved the payment by the British government of £360 million in aid to British Steel, a Commissioo spokesman said Thursday. The aid is the second part of a £730 million package for this year and 1982, the rest of which was approved by the commission earlier this year. EEC steel users Thursday issued a statement protesting the Commis-sion's support for a 12.5-percent steel price increase. The steel users said that the recommended price increase "took no account of the ability of steel users to absorb price rises."

Small and medium-scale eogineering companies were likely to have the most difficulty in absorbing the planned increase of 100 Deutsche marks a metric ton from Jan. 1, the users said.

VW Cor Sales in Rest of Europe Up 17%

Reater BONN — Volkswagen has increased car sales in Western European countries other than West Germany by 17 percent in the first nine months of this year to 465,000, a company spokesman said Thursday. He said that sales of Audi and VW models in the rest of Europe are expected to rise to more than 600,000 this year from 530,200 in 1980. Sales in 1taly rose 55 percent in the first five months to more than 100,000, while French sales were 39 percent higher at almost 10,000. Such stocks as Con Edison, Wisconsin Electric Power and Southern California Edison all have touched yearly highs this week.

This summer, "electric utility stocks beat ... the [sagging] bond market. They were the best play around." Mr. Altman said. The reason: Even as rising interest rates were translating into falling bond prices, inflatioo was moderating. Because utilities have trouble passing along rising costs, Mr. Altman said the inflation outlook is more significant to the stocks than are interest rates. "Construction costs seem to be

The man with exceptional goals needs an exceptional bank.

What makes Trade Development Bank exceptional? To start with, there is our policy of concentrating on things we do unusually well. For example, trade and export financing, foreign exchange and banknotes, money market transactions and precious metals.

Geographically, too, we work mainly in areas where we have something special to offer. This includes the U.S.A., where our subsidiary, Republic National Bank of New York, is one of America's 30 largest banks. It also includes a number of less familiar countries, where our exceptional knowledge of local conditions can be an important advantage for clients.

What's more, we keep our backoffice systems running abreast of our business. You may not notice this directly, but it shows up in quicker decisions and fewer errors.

While we move fast in serving our clients, we're distinctly traditionalist in our basic policies. At the heart of our business is the maintenance of a strong and diversified deposit base. Our portfolio of assets is also well-diversified, and it is a point of principle with us to keep a conservative ratio of capital to deposits and a high degree of liquidity - sensible strategies in these uncertain times.

If TDB sounds like the sort of bank you would like to entrust with your business, get in touch with us. We're ready to serve you in most of the world's financial centers.

AMC Asks Workers to Cut Wages, Benefits Emigrés Are Prospering In Private Polish Businesses

By John Holusha New York Times Service

DETROIT - American Motors has asked its employees to forgo future salary and benefit increases amounting to about 10 percent of their current compensation to help the company through its financial difficulties.

Officials of the United Automobile Workers union said the proposal would receive "careful consideration." making it the first time the union has agreed to consider reopening contracts with the auto companies since it gave up more than $1 billion in wage and benefit increases last year at Chrysler.

Executives of General Motors and Ford have been seeking to reopen their UAW contracts to reduce labor costs, but the union has refused. AMC is the fourth largest U.S. automobile com-

A UAW spokesman said local officials would meet in early December to decide whether to be-gin oegotiations based on the American Motors proposal. The company presented its plan to un-ion leaders Tuesday and disclosed its outlines

The American Motors proposal, which will have to be voted on by union members, would supply about $150 million over 22 months to AMC, which reported an $89.4 million loss for 1981's first mine meether 1981's first nine months.

AMC described the proposal as an "Employee Investment Plan," under which the deferred wages would be treated as a savings account bear-ing 10 percent interest. The company said repayment terms were to be negotisted, but unioo sources said payback was guaranteed starting in 1984.

Ray Majerus, secretary-treasurer of the UAW and head of its American Motors department, said union officials had been talking for some time with AMC executives about the company's financial difficulties. "They came to us and said, 'Hey. fellas, things are getting worse,' " Mr. Ma-jerus said. "They asked to meet with our local unions and we agreed."

"A Step Beyond"

Asked if appearing willing to reopen its con-tract with American Motors might bring similar requests from other automobile companies, Mr. Majerus said: "They're all on our doorstep now. We've rejected them out of hand until oow. But this proposal goes a step beyond what has been suggested, which is why we are seriously considering it." Spokesmen for the other automakers declined to comment on the American Motors development

According to unioo sources, AMC is seeking a freeze in contractual wage increases and cost-of-living adjustments as well as a reduction in the number of paid days off. Insurance payments and other fringe benefits would not be affected, the sources said.

Looming behind the proposal is the threat that production would be moved overseas unless the company gets cost relief. Union sources said, un-like other automakers, AMC has not been bandying about threats of such "outsourcing."

But because 46 percent of the company's stock is controlled by Renault of France and the two companies are preparing to introduce a Renaultdesigned car, some union officials are convinced that moving production overseas might be easier for AMC than the others.

WARSAW - Poland is 'a capitalist paradise," said businessman Les Moritz, of Warsaw and Bloomfield Hills, Mich. "You don't have competition."

"You don't need salesmen," added businessman Stefan Lewan-dowski, of Warsaw and Stockholm, enthusiastically. "You just send one of your employees over for a half-hour conversation with the one buyer in Poland."

Mr. Moritz and Mr. Lewandowski are among a rapidly grow-ing oumber of Polish emigres who have not only accepted a government invitation to set up private businesses here, but who have become active promoters of the idea. The government passed legisla-tion permitting these privately owned companies to operate in So-cialist Poland in mid-1976. About 100 have been formed so far - the number doubling each of the last two years.

Collectively, the companies em-ploy some 1,600 Polish workers and are expecting to do $90 million worth of business this year. This summer, they took over the Polish-Polonian Chamber of Industry and Commerce - Inter-Polcom, as it is known. Polonia is the term for the estimated 10 million to 15 million people of Polish origin now living outside the country. Once sponsored in part by the Polish Ministry of Foreign Trade, Inter-Polcom is now run exclusive ly by the 100 mostly nonresident entrepreneurs as a trade associa-

But export is the magic word for these private companies, because export is the key to taking profits out of Poland,

Poland's currency, the zloty, is not accepted in the West, and these private companies are per-mitted to exchange into Western currencies only an amount of zlotys equal to 9 percent of their anoual investment. The rest of their zloty profits must remain in Po-land. Mr. Lewandowski said he uses those to expand his business.

The private companies are al-lowed to take out of Poland 50 $3 millioo worth of business a year. Of that, about $750,000 is in percent of their Western currency profits from exports. The remaining profits in bard currency must be exchanged for zlotys at the offi-cial — although artifically low rate.

NO PLACE OF GRACE Antimodernism and the Transformation of American Culture By Jackson Lears. 375 pp. $18.90. Pantheon, 201 East 50th St., New York 10022. Reviewed by John Leonard and Vedanta, Kipling and kakemond — these people were needy. What did we need? We needed spontaneity, autonomy, regeneration, romance, the fulfillment of self and romance, the fulfilment of self and the taking of risks, "intensity of feel-ing," a tragic sense of life, "oceanic" rapture. No wonder American andi-ences clapped themselves to death at productions of "Peter Pan" when they were asked, "Do you believe in fair-ies?" We wanted to save Tinker Bell, "We wanted to save Tinker Bell,

What did we get? Nietzsche called it "weightless." T.S. Eliot said "Ash Wednesday." Lears submits the "com-modified self." I am tired. Let them

According to "No Place of Grace," American dissent managed somehow — "superficially," "half-conscions," "unintentional," "covert," "evasive" and "Janus-faced" (there are so many faces of Janus, we must be trapped in. faces of Janus, we must be trapped in. a revolving door) — to accommodate and legitimize U.S. capitalist consum-er culture, After gagging, we swal-lowed. What had been Protestant be-came "therapeutic," leading, I sup-pose, to a welfare state, a corporate liberalism with no more "moral con-tent" than a logicht full of pruse tent" than a knight full of prenck. William James and Jane Addams, Sourgis Bigelow and Ralph Adams, Cram, G. Stanley Hall and Louise Inogen Guiney were appalled by and nonetheless abetted "the modern superego." The only hero left to us is Henry Adams, who ate his prunes and

Theoretical Significance

Pauliner Lears is not modest: "I do not think it is presumptuous to claim that this book has major theoretical signifi-cance for the study of cultural histocance for the study of cultural histo-ry." He wants to get together with Marx and Freud; he will season them with the inevitable Gramsci. He must have read Trilling, Ivan Illich, Herbert Marcuse, Leslie Fiedler, Norman O. Brown, a Mailer, s Ziff, a Skolnick and a Kammen. He misses White-bead. His Dewey is a cartoon. He would rather not think about the his-tory of labor. or history, period The tory of labor, or history, period. The search for a "sacred center" did not begin at the Chicago World's Fair, the Romantic movement had already been around for a couple of centuries. That the United States, feeling bad, neglected to go Fascist says something nice about America, for once. That we didn't go "socialist" says something about Lears' failure to define socialism, if he means the Soviet Union, I will eat prunes. But he has made me angry because, knowing so much, he shuts up after 1920. Please, Sir, direct us to a place of grace. He can't, or won't, or is coy and "Janus-faced." Like Melville, he is acquainted with the confidence man. I wish he were a better writer. To say that "Many Americans, after prying their inherited creed loose from the rocky subsoil of evangelical arthodory, realized that their paths orthodoxy, realized that their paths led not into a theological New Jerusalem, but rather into a wilderness of self-fulfiliment well attuned to

Rushing Toward a Heisman

USC's Marcus Allen 'Runs Crazy' — Just Ask Him

By John Feinstein ashington Post Service WASHINGTON - How do you tackle Marcus Allen?

La ser average d'

"I would let him get beside me, then jump on him. You don't try to take him head-on because most times he'll run through you. I mean, he runs crazy. You take him on, most times, you don't get him.

The analyst was Marcus Allen, laughing as he talked about why people have difficulty stopping him when he comes dashing out of Southern California's backfield.

This is oot conceit. Just a matter of fact. And the ability to slip taoklers, avoid tacklers and run through tacklers has made him the favorite for the Heisman Trophy in what started out to be the Year of Herschel Walker.

What an unbelievable back," said the Notre Dame coach. Gerry Faust, after Allen gained 147 yards against his team Oct. 24. We defensed him well. We were there, waiting for him. I've never seen a back take that kind of punishment and still keep coming back." As Faust spoke that day, Allen stood in front of his locker in the visitors' dressing room, arms folded, and patiently discussed the game. When a microphone got too close for comfort, he didn't snap. "I talk better with room," he said softly. The microphone was backed away.

Room is not something Allen needs on the field. He is a quick back, but he also is a slasher, the kind who almost never goes down on the first hit. His teammates call him "Young Juice."

"We've had two kinds of backs here, the kind that pick their holes Con Strange and the kind that attack," said the Trojans' coach, John Robinson.

Fourth-seeded Australia swept the seventh-ranked Netherlands, 3-0, while Britain, the No. 5 seed, eliminated the unseeded Soviet Union, 2-I. Australia and Britain will meet Saturday.

For Australia, Dianne Fromholtz beat Marianne V.D. Torre in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, and Wendy Turnbull stopped Marcella Mesker, 7-6, 7-6. Turnbull then teamed with Susan Leo to beat ter. Mesker and Torre, 6-4, 6-3.

The Russians, who seldom ap-pear in international competition, surprised the British when 17-yearold Julia Salnikova beat Virginia Wade, 6-4, 7-6, in the opening match. But Britain's Sue Barker then defeated Elena Eliseenko, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, and Barker and Wade teamed to beat Svetlana Cherneva and Olga Zaitseva, 6-3, 6-1.

Romania's Fate Uncertain in World Cup

BERN — Switzerland and Romania played to a 0-0 tie Wednesday in their last World Cup soccer qualifying match, leaving the Romanians' fate to be determined in next week's final Group Four match between England and Hungary in London. Hungary, with 10 points, has already qualified for next year's finals in Spain. England, with seven points, occess at least a draw pert week sesing the points, occds at least a draw next week against the group leader to overtake Romania - with eight points — on goal difference and qualify for the other Group Four berth. If Hungary defeats England. Romania will advance.

Switzerland had to win Wednesday to maintain its qualifying chances. But before a home crowd of 16,000, it was unable to score against the tight defense of Romania.

Elsewhere, Austria, playing its final qualifying match, secured a 0-0 draw with Bulgaria in Sofia - virtually assuring the Austrians of a berth in the fmals.

West Germany, with 12 points from its six straight victories, has already advanced from European Group One. Austria has 11 points from eight games, and it will secure the second qualify-ing berth from Group One unless Bulgaria defeats West Germany by more than five goals in Düsseldorf on Nov. 22

The Bulgarians, knowing they had to defeat Austria to maintain a realistic chance of reaching the finals, tried to attack for 90 minutes. But they failed to overcome the well-organized Austrian defense. Anstria played defensively throughout and hardly threatened the Bulgarian goal.

In Kusla Lumpur on Thursday, China rallied with four goals in the last 30 minutes to defeat Saudi Arabia, 4-2, in a qualifying match in the Asia-Oceania group.

In North American regional qualifying matches Wednesday, Cuba and El Salvador played to a 0-0 draw and Mexico tied Haiti, 1-1, in Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

In a friendly match in Buenos Aires, Czechoslo-vakia held the defending World Cup champion, Argentina, to a 1-1 draw.

Observer War Can Be Fun

By Russell Baker

NEW YORK - To children of the 1930s World War 1. though it had ended only 15 or 20 years earlier, already belonged to ancient history. I marveled that my parents had been alive when it was fought. It made them seem very, very old.

The impression of an antique war came from a yellowing old military history book whose photographs, bhirred and lifeless. showed soldiers in odd tin-pot hats and puttees. The uoiforms scemed almost comically quaint Baker We were of the immediate postwar generation, but already the war existed for us largely as a musty relic.

What a contrast World War II has been. Though it ended 35 years ago, I doubt there is a sentient ad-olescent who doesn't have it em-bedded in his bones.

Since 1945 we have lived con-stantly with World War II in film, books, comics and television. It's as though we loved that war so much we couldn't bear to give it up to the past. Thirty-five years later Nazis re-main a staple of the best-selling potboiler. It is a rare season with-out a best-selling tale about Nazi machinations past or present.

In some versions the old Nazi leaders who were supposed to have died in the bunker are discovered alive and deadly in the jet age. "The Boys From Brazil" a few years ago raised the terrible and happy possibility that evil Dr. Mengele had cloned dozens of new Hitlers who, even oow, might be loose among us. Why is such a terrible possibility happy? I think because we oeed the Nazis as archvillains whom we can loathe without feeling inhu-man. This is not a great age for villains; too often nowadays they turn out to be your allies or your victims. Nazis make it possible to fear and hate without guilt.

Reviewing the loog postwar his-tory of the Nazi in American entertainment, you wooder whether American writers, actors and pro-ducers could have made a living if there had been oo World War IL

It is curious to track the style transformations that movies and television worked upoo their World War II soldiers over the years in an effort to keep the war up to date. Consider hair styling. The old 1940s films show GIs correctly with severe crew cuts. By the 1960s, fancy hairdos for men had made the crew cut look antique and slightly comic (like the tin-pot hats and puttees of World War I) to younger Americans. To make the war look up to date movie makers began lengthening the hair on their GIs, and we had a 1960s generation of World War II warriors wearing hair in long, fetchingly styled drapes that would have looked ludicrous in 1942.

The Nazi also underwent change. In the loog-running televi-sion series, "Hogan's Heroes," the Nazi ceased being an incredibly ef-ficient martinet capable of the ulti-mate monstrosities, and became a comic, even slightly lovable oaf, too dimwitted to cope with the high jinks of a fun-loving bunch of American kids.

* * * The new monsters were in Mosow, and the new ally was Germa-oy. Still, if we were hooked oo Na-zis and World War II we didn't have to give them up entirely. We could keep them by turning them into comic bumblers. If high-spirit-ed lads with Southern California haircuts could outwit them every time --- well, it just showed that the war was really a lot of fun and Americans didn't have to worry about their new German friends being just a mite too clever. And anyhow you had to be em-barrassingly old and terribly stuffy to point out that three things the Nazis weren't were funny, likeable and incompetent. There is no end in sight to World War II. In the supermarket the other day I noticed two oew paperhacks with swastikas on their covers. A local movie house recently had that unlikeliest of Nazis, Laurence Olivier, drilling nice-guy Dustin Hoffman's teeth, and just two nights ago on television I watched the British Army fight the battle of Burma. Today is the 63d anniversary of the armistice that ended World War I. "The Great War," my mother used to call it. It feels as if it happened 300 years ago. I guess the Kaiser was rotten box office. New York Times Service

Betty Friedan and the Second Stage

Her New Book Enrages Some Radicals, Calms Other Feminists

"This uneasy sense of battles won, only to be fought over again, of battles that should have been won, according to all the rules, and yet are not, of battles that suddenly one does not really want to win, and the wearlness of battle altogether - how many women feel it?"

-Betty Friedan in "The Second Stage."

By Nan Robertson lew York Times Service

NEW YORK - Betty Friedan says the women's movement of the 1970s is at the "second stage," consolidating hard-won gains and moving forward to new goals but certainly not "over" as so many people say. Her second stage includes men and chil-dren. This has sent some radical feminists

Miss Friedan, the author of "The Femi-nine Mystique," the landmark book that unleashed the contemporary feminist move-ment in 1963, and the "founding mother" and first president of the National Organizatioo for Women, seems mildly surprised at the storm in some feminist circles that her latest book, "The Second Stage," has aroused even before publication. She should be used

Ever since Susan Brownmiller, the author of "Against Our Will: Men, Women and Rape," called Miss Friedan "hopelessly bourgeois" a decade ago, she has been the object of scorn and controversy on one side as well as affection and even veneration on the other

Thoughts and Philosophy

Now, perching briefly in her apartment ey-rie 40 stories up into the Manhattan sky, a modern box stuffed with books and Victorian furniture, she discusses her thoughts and philosophy before swooping off on yet an-other lecture and talk-show tour across the country. She is dressed in a moss green velvet suit, ruffled fuchsia blouse and dainty sandals. She gestures wildly, stuttering some-times in excitement as she attempts to marshal her scattered ideas in a rush against a busy schedule. "Read the book! Read the book!" she ex-claims whenever her visitor - who has read the book - asks her a question for clarificatioo or seems to bore in. She bristles when she is asked bow the "superwoman" of the oew generation can possibly handle high-tension careers, hushands and babies all at once without breaking down. "Well, of course they're tired," she snaps. "I'm tired." She turned 60 earlier this year, after almost 20 years in the thick of the feminist struggle. Before her first book, her life was that of the classic frustrated suburban housewife she immortalized in "The Feminist Mystique."

She speaks of a 40-year-old career woman she met recently during her travels. "How are you?" inquired Miss Friedan. "I'm tired," was the groaned reply, followed by "Well, now I've got to go home to my first-stage life style" — a bitter and typical allusion to a demanding husband or lover who wouldn't share the household tasks and responsibili-

Friedan feels there is more hope in younger men like her 28-year-old son, Jonathan, one of her three grown children. Jonathan was just married to a working woman. "If they have children, I assure you that Jonathan will be an equal opportunity she speaks of the sight, common at least on the streets and in the parks of New York, of young fathers pushing baby strollers, of shared cooking and washing up at home, of examples disk in the parks. parenthood that means equal partners. Her own marriage ended in divorce, yet she feels that her former husband became that kind of partner in raising their children, particularly after she became famous.

She also conceded that it was rare in her generation. "In my time, we never expected the men to — quote, unquote — help, much less share," she says. She mentions the enormous popularity of the film "Kramer vs. Kramer," in which a young father played by Dustin Hoffman turns away from a selfish, go-getting career to raise the boy his wife has abandoned in order to seek her own fulfillment.

Speaking of charges by some feminists that she has sold out to the male and female conservative right, that her latest book may be interpreted as a retreat or repudiation of all that the women's movement has fought for in the last 20 years, she says: "Some militants repudiated all the parts of the personhood of women that have been and are still expressed in family, home and love. In trying to ape men's lives, they have truncated themselves away from grounding experiences. If young women lock themselves into the roles of amhitious men. I'm not sure it's a good bargain. It can be terribly imprisoning and life deny-

But, Miss Friedan adds, "We can't go back and we shouldn't go back."

Inflation and Necessity

When asked how embattled women are going to go forward, she explodes. "Don't ask what women are going to do! If you take a question like child care as just a woman's problem, forget it, forget it!" She points ont that more than 45 percent of the mothers of children under 6 are now working because of economic necessity due to inflation, compared with only 10 percent in 1960. This worries her because "no major national effort is being made for child-care services by government, business, labor, Democratic or Republican parties — or by

when asked if she is suggesting the return of women to volunteer work, of doing part-time work for oo pay, Miss Friedan says no, T'm suggesting a new, passionate vol

"The women's movement itself was the best volunteerism I've seen, and yet the first stage of feminism sneered at volunteerism of any kind."

She speaks of some possible solutions to "doing it all" such as flexitime, or working four days instead of five for both men and women. She thinks it is wrong for both sexes to get locked into a frantic climh up the ladder of professional success while neglecting or forgoing the pleasures of marriage and parenthood.

She sighed and got up to go off to an ap-pointment for which she was late. Whirling into a handsome new coat she showed off proudly, Miss Friedan then sprinted for the elevator. On the way down, she was asked, Would you like to get married again?" Her eyes lit up. "That's the one unfinished part," she said, "to have a relationship with a man that will work."

PEOPLE: Harriman 15 Honoren At 90th Birthday Party

Amidst splendor that occasionally seemed almost Republican, 1,500 Democrats honored W. Avereli Harriman at his 90th birthday party. "We couldn't have held the 20th century without him." Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said of the man who advised the last five Democratic presidents, starting with Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1933. An annual event in Washington for two decades, the birthday party this year was a fundraiser expected to bring in over $500,000 for the Democratic Party. Former Vice President Walter F. Mondale and former Budget Di-rector Bert Lauce represented for-mer President Jimmy Curter's four years in office. Lady Bird Johnson spoke on behalf of the Lyndon Johnson years, and lawyer Clark Clifford represented the Harry S Truman administration, when Harriman was ambassador to Great Britain. Harriman boasts that he has lived almost half the life of the republic. He was born during the presidency of Benjamin Harrison and he knew or negotiated with Trotsky, Mussolini, Churchill, Sta-lin and Brezhnev. Harriman has held so many top positions in Democratic administrations that Clifford joked that among his ma-jor faults is the fact that "Averell Harriman cannot hold a job." . . .

Britain's Prince Philip has been hiding his talents as an artist. But now 36 of his paintings are going on display in London — they're not for sale - to stir interest in a charity auction of donated works of art. The thing you notice most is his sense of color." Lon-don's Lord Mayor, Sir Romald Gardner-Thorpe, who is heading the charity drive, which marks the 25th anniversary of the Duke of Edinburgh's Award Scheme, was even more enthusiastic.
